President Taft Receives the Populace And Others at New Year's Reception.

United Press Telegram. WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—President Taft smiled his New Year's greeting to the world today.

It was the second time that the President and Mrs. Taft officiated as host and hostess at that time-honored function, the White House New Year's reception.

In defiance of the weather, crowds gathered outside the White House hours before the buglers of the Marine Band trumpeted the entrance of the Chief Magistrate and the First Lady of the land to commence the reception of the allied diplomats, the judiciary and the government officials, all of whom were received before the latter was lifted to the common people.

There was a character for every role in a world drama among the crowd that twined in a persistent and stamping line from the White House doors down Pennsylvania avenue. Thousands of shiny elbows, frosted cheeks, fur-lined overcoats with familiar, contemptuous, merrily determined physiognomies kept a hawklike watch for advantageous places in the line. There were lean, there were fat, there were tall and there were small, in the thousands that came to shake the hand of President Taft and to wish him a Happy New Year.

With the first deep boom of the great bell clock at 11, four buglers stepped out from the band and sounded the Presidential call. The President and Mrs. Taft appeared at the top of the broad winding stair and came down to receive the Vice President and Mrs. Sherman, and the members of the Cabinet and their wives. The party then moved to the southern end of the Blue Room, where the President and Vice President and the Cabinet members formed a receiving line and the ladies took up their places to the right of them. Then commenced the reception of the diplomatic corps.

This is one of the most gorgeous spectacles that the National Capital witnesses in the entire year. Bedecked and bedrilled with the orders of their monarchs, in all the splendor of their court costumes, the representatives of the foreign nations filed past the President. It was a brilliant display of colors—of red and gold and blue, scintillating here and there with the shining helmets of the Germans and the silks of the Oriental ambassadors and ministers. As ambassadors were led by Baron Hogenmuller von Hogenmuller, the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, who, since the last New Year's reception has succeeded to the rank of den of the diplomatic corps. Following him came the ambassadors arranged according to their seniority—those most recently accredited to the United States coming last in line. The last ambassador in line was Marchese Cusani, the Italian Ambassador, followed by the charges d'affaires of the Brazilian and Chilean embassies, the representatives of those countries having died in the past year, and successors having as yet been sent by their governments.

After the ambassadors came the ministers, headed by Señor Don Joaquín Bernardo Calvo, the Cuban Minister, who has been for years den of the ministerial contingent. The last in this line was Mr. H. H. Bryn, Minister from Norway, who was presented to the President only a few weeks ago. Each ambassador and minister was accompanied by his wife and the members of his suit.

Before the last diplomat had passed from sight the Chief Justice of the United States, Edward Douglas White, led the associate justices of the Supreme Court into the receiving room. They were followed by other members of the judiciary, among them the judges of the Federal Circuit and Customs Appeals. Then the President shook hands with Senators and Representatives who remained in Washington during the holidays. There were only a few of them.

The congressional delegation marked the end of the first part of the reception. The buglers again stepped from their places with the band and sounded another spirited fanfare, as the door opened for the army, navy and marine corps officials—all in their full dress uniforms. Every military officer on duty in Washington was there, and the gold lace of their uniforms was but little less gorgeous than the glistered dress of the diplomats.

With the passing of the military, the spectacular features of the reception were at an end, and the less government officials in plain citizens' clothes, died in, in the following order:

The Solicitor General, Assistant Attorney General, Assistant Secretaries of the Department, Assistant Postmasters General, the Records and Secretary of the Senate, the Secretary of the Civil Service Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commissioners, the Traffic Board, the Railroad Securities Commissioners, the Isthmian Canal Commissioners, the United States Customs Collector, the Public Printer, the heads of bureaus in the several departments, the President of the Columbia Institution for the Deaf and Dumb.

Then followed the various patriotic societies, who are accorded special recognition at the New Year's reception. Members of the following organizations were in line: The Society of the Clergymen, the Aztec Club of 1840, the Associated Veterans of the War of 1846-47, the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Medal of Honor Legion, the Union Veteran Legion, the Union Veterans' Union, the Spanish War Veterans, the Army and Navy Union, the Minute Men, the Sons of the American Revolution, and the members of the Oldest Inhabitants Association of the District of Columbia.

The last of the official visitors had left by 1 o'clock. Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Sherman, and the ladies of the cabinet then withdrew from the reception line to the State Dining Room, where refreshments were served. In the Blue Room the President and his cabinet squatted their shoulders and prepared to receive the long line that for hours had been gathering along the White House walls. The President's smile broadened, the bugles sounded, the band broke into a lively step and the "common people" entered.

A heterogeneous throng—typically American—filed in to the lively music of the band, quickened to hurry their along. The line moved fast and reached the President but there it was delayed by each individual endeavoring to obtain a distinctively personal greeting.

A few feet down the line from the President stood several well-dressed and well-built men, apparently looking carefully about, but keeping a careful eye on the moving line as it approached the Executive. They were the secret service men, and not a person reached the objective point of the line without their close scrutiny. There were no hands wrapped in handkerchiefs, no packages were carried in the line, and no one approached the President without receiving their two hands in plain sight. Not once did the famous Taft smile droop. There was a word for everyone. As the President shook hands with each citizen he exemplified the holiday spirit of good cheer. With the hands of the people he generally repeated the caller's name, and announced by Capt. Archie Butt, his aide or else said he was "glad to see him—and he looked the part, too."

Anniversary Sermon Preached

Rev. B. Frank White preached his second anniversary sermon as pastor of the United Presbyterian Church yesterday morning to a large congregation. After the service a "tag" meeting was held in which the members of the church and friends present were given an opportunity to speak of the work accomplished the past year and to suggest lines of work for the coming year. This was a most interesting service and many took occasion to express their high appreciation of the minister, especially of the way he has preached boldly and fearlessly during the past year. A number of new members were received in connection with the service, making a total of 140 during the two years of Rev. White's ministry.

The congregation is in fine condition, every department of the work having made substantial progress during the past year. At the recent Christmas service 260 new Testaments were given to the children of the Sabbath school as presents. During the pastorate only two members have died. Both pastor and people seemed enthusiastic over the promising outlook for the congregation in its membership, and in its work.

J. W. HEADS MAY BE HEAD REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Early this month the Republican national committee will hold a meeting in Washington at the President's suggestion, and it is reported that Representative John Weeks of Massachusetts will be elected chairman. Frank H. Hitchcock, who has been chairman for several years, has practically relinquished the position, and for some time his duties have been performed by J. P. Hill of Maine. Mr. Hitchcock's arduous duties as Postmaster General compelled his retirement. Representative Weeks is a banker, a member of the firm of Hornblower & Weeks of Boston, vice president of the First National Bank of Boston, president of the New Britain Trust Company of New Britain, Mass., and a graduate of the Naval Academy.

Brings the Outside World to You

This simple act tells the story of BELL efficiency. Lifting the receiver of any Bell Telephone is equivalent to making a call or making a journey. The Bell System reaches out everywhere and brings to you the party with whom you wish to speak.

A standing army of one hundred thousand Bell employees is on duty at all times to render you prompt service. Ten million miles of wire radiate all over the country for the convenience of Bell users—for your convenience.

It is this far-reaching, constant, to-the-second service that makes the Bell System supreme in the principal cities, and which gives to small communities the same telephone advantages enjoyed in the large centers.

Bell service is UNIVERSAL. It brings the outside world to you.

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Nineteen hundred and eleven probably will remove from the United States Senate 23 of its members—one fourth of its total membership. The New Year will bring the election of new senators in more than two thirds of the states. It will witness a sweeping change in that picturesque and long-remembered adjunct of the upper house—the "Old Guard."

The Democratic trend of the November elections will naturally have a material bearing on the senatorial contests, but will not be so marked as in the House, where the Democratic forces change from a minority to a majority.

Two of the states—North Dakota and Virginia—will choose two Senators each.

In North Dakota, the regular term of Senator McCumber (Republican) and the appointive term of Senator Purcell (Democrat) will expire on March 3. Purcell was appointed by a Democratic governor last January to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Fountain L. Thompson. The legislature elected in November has a large Republican majority, and one of its first duties, and its great pleasure, will be to replace Purcell with a Republican, Rep. Alex J. Grooms, a militant insurgent, is assured of the position. McCumber will be re-elected without opposition.

The next Virginia legislature will elect two Senators, one for the term beginning March 1, 1914 and the other for the term beginning March 1, 1915. If Senators Martin and Swanson, or either of them, have opposition in their desire for re-election the matter will be fought out in the Democratic primary held in the first week of next September. Francis Pickens, a Democrat, whose term ends March 4, 1913, are inclined to the belief that there will be no contest for his seat. Whether Swanson will have competition is doubtful. Senator Charles Glass has been strongly urged by friends to contest with Swanson for the honor, but Glass has not indicated whether or not he will make the fight. In the absence of opposition the question of re-electing the senators would go direct to the legislature.

Martin has been in the Senate 15 years. Swanson served seven terms in Congress and two terms as Governor of Virginia before he was appointed to serve the unexpired term of the late Senator Daniel Glass. He has just been elected for the sixth time as a member of Congress.

Friends of Senator Lodge find cold comfort in the news from Massachusetts and they gravely fear that he may follow Aldrich, Hale, Scott and Burrows, veteran leaders of the Senate into retirement. The most optimistic of the Senator's followers speak of the situation as "close" or "doubtful."

As the main object of Lodge's enemies is to bring about his defeat there is no indication who will be chosen as his successor in case he is beaten. This man who promises to add most strength to the fight will be most acceptable to Lodge's foes. Former governors Curtis Guild, Jr. and John L. Hines and Representative McCall Wood are under consideration by the Republicans as candidates to be taken up in the event that Lodge is forced to retire.

Rhode Island in its attempt to select a successor to Senator Aldrich, has started a fight big, the big bulge the narrow border-lands of the state. H. P. Lippitt, a big cotton manufacturer, is the choice of Aldrich and the Regular Republican organization. They gave a big dinner recently to boost Lippitt and Aldrich traveled all the way from Washington to Providence to attend.

A conspiracy to defeat Lippitt is charged by the latter's friends against Judge Leighton B. Colt (Rep.) and Judge Arthur Brown, Democrat. A good many Republicans suggest as a solution of the complications that have arisen that Aldrich be returned to the Senate but the veteran has, so far, insisted that his declaration of retirement was his final word.

come an active figure in politics in the last few years and holds office in natural gas and other companies alleged to be under Standard Oil influence, is making an open fight against Aldrich's opponent an attorney and progressive Democrat of Canton. They have held a series of joint debates and have had many politicians to the belief that both will be eliminated.

Governor Harrison is much talked of and he may give up the Ohio governorship to become a Senator. John R. McLean, owner of a Cincinnati newspaper and the Washington, D. C. gas company, was regarded a short time ago as a candidate, but is now considered out of the race.

New York's senatorial race is without any particular favorite. Several men are considered by the leaders and talked about. Senator Depew's Democratic successor may be William L. Sheehan, Edward W. Shepard, Norman L. Mack, Mayor Gaynor, John B. Purser, or some other candidate not yet put forward.

Florida Democrats are in a daze over the complications that confront them in the senatorial selection. There is a misgiving in California in the Republican primary. A G. Spaulding, a San Diego millionaire whose name is known throughout the baseball world, and Judge Charles D. Voigt, of Los Angeles, submitted their names to the citizens. Voigt received a majority of the popular vote, but Spaulding carried a majority of the legislative districts.

Iowa is a center of interest because a group of fighting progressives are out for the seat of Senator "Lute" Young, temporarily serving by appointment as the successor of the late Senator Doolittle. Trouble threatens in Minnesota, where all has been serene in New Jersey is a question whether James Smith or James E. Martin, Democrat, shall succeed Senator Keen, Republican.

A merry scrap is in progress among West Virginia Democrats for the honor of succeeding Senator Scott. Republican "Tennessee" with its bitter political temper will struggle with the claims of a varied assortment of candidates.

Among Northern Democrats, T. J. Walsh, an attorney at Hudson, is a strong force in the senatorial contest. The chief opponent is W. G. Conrad, a multi-millionaire, who has long had an ambition to break into Washington, either as Senator or Vice President. Ex-Senator W. C. Clark, the copper magnate Governor Edwin Norris, and Frank Whitehead have been mentioned.

The Georgia legislature, when it meets in July, will choose a successor to Senator J. H. Torrell. Senators who will be elected to the next Congress are Carroll S. Pugh, now a Republican member of the Senate from Vermont, and John Sharp. William (Lon) Mix, who was long a congressman and Democratic leader in the House.

Senators who will be re-elected with out opposition are John W. Kern (Dem Ind.), Gilbert N. Hitchcock (Dem Neb.), James A. McMillan (Dem Mo.), A. J. Grooms (Rep. N. D.).

Of 30 Senators whose terms expire March 3, 1911, only one has been re-elected and only nine others are certain of re-election.

The terms of 30 Senators will expire March 3, 1911, and of 30 other Senators, March 3, 1912.

GIRL GOES BACK TO HER HOME.

Had Come North and Was Living at Brother-in-Law's Home.

HER FATHER IS A MINISTER

Rev. J. L. Guthrie and Came From the South With Letters That Gave Him Prompt Aid From Officers at Scottsdale.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Jan. 2.—Rev. J. L. Guthrie has departed for his southern home with his daughter, Mamie, aged 15, whom he had traced from Tennessee to Scottsdale, the girl having left home with her brother-in-law, it is claimed.

A telegram to Chief of Police Frank McCord sought information as to whether Walter Miller was in Scottsdale. The chief took a walk down street and met Miller on the corner of Pittsburgh street and Broadway, and within five minutes after receiving the telegram of inquiry the answer was speeded back to the minister in Morrison, Tenn. The latter was searching for his daughter, believing that wherever Miller was there the daughter was too. Miller is married and his wife is a daughter of Rev. Guthrie, and she and her husband had been visiting the former's father, but the girl left after them. She is a large girl for her age, and when found here refused to return to the South. Rev. Guthrie came here bearing the strongest recommendations from the Burgess and Prosecuting Attorney of the county to his residence in, and the local officers were well satisfied that his case was all right. The father did not want anything but that the daughter return home but after it was arranged that the girl should meet him at the train the girl failed to appear, and the father, looking for Miller's home, found it locked. That night the police returned to hunt the girl, finding her with her sister returning to the latter's home late that night. The affair was settled by the girl consenting to go home, and she and her father started before she would do so. A threat of prosecuting Miller was made, and he paid the fare for the girl home when also consented to go.

Schools Resumed Today.

The schools of Scottsdale and East Huntingdon township resumed work this morning after the Christmas holidays. The banks are all closed today and the postoffice closed at 11 o'clock. The carriers made one collection and delivery. The rural delivery service was abandoned for the day.

To Serve Their County.

For the criminal court of Westmoreland county in the February term the jury commissioners have drawn several men from Scottsdale and East Huntingdon township. For the week opening February 11 there are drawn Jesse Hayes, J. S. Kelly and A. I. Storer of East Huntingdon township for the week of February 20, there has been drawn George Leasure, Emma Loucks, Albert D. Pletcher of East Huntingdon township, and G. A. Murphy and Mike Fish of Scottsdale, David P. Flegan, L. B. Keefe, W. C. Myers, H. F. Felt and Hugh Peterson, of East Huntingdon township, and William Kinell of Scottsdale, are called for the week beginning February 27, for the week of March 6, Charles T. H. Gaultin, J. S. McCurdy of East Huntingdon township, and Isaac Brown, H. C. Byers, John Nichols and Albert J. Strickler of Scottsdale are called, while for the week beginning March 13, George Bruner and Jerry Liden of East Huntingdon township are called.

Bridal Couple Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney S. Bruce are at home from their wedding trip to the east and have taken up their abode in the "Bridle" Apartments, Pittsburg. Mr. Bruce is the coachman of the Mammal Training Department of the Scottsdale schools, while his wife was engaged in the same work in the domestic science department here a year ago.

Meeting Deferred.

At the first Methodist Episcopal Church the meeting that was to have been held tonight was postponed until tomorrow evening on account of severe winter weather. The meeting tomorrow evening will be a New Year one in treatment, and promises to be very interesting. There will be meetings on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings also.

Watch Meeting Services Saturday Night at the South Side Tabernacle.

The watch night service Saturday evening at the tabernacle was of peculiar interest that always attends the beginning of a new year and many devotions were made to make 1911 the best year of christian service in many lives.

Preceding the tabernacle service a street meeting was held by the evangelists at the corner of Pittsburgh and Main streets, the White Brigade and the evangelistic choir marching to the place of meeting. The girls of the brigade were dressed in white and carried guns which they handled with skill in the drill which Evangelist Davis conducted. The choir sang a number of hymns, the brigade singing responsively and a large crowd was attracted to the scene. Later a prayer was formed which marched to the tabernacle, which was speedily filled, people continuing to come up till midnight. The singing was a strong feature of the service. The Devo family trio sang a selection and a duet by Alice Brown and M. Miller was a pleasing number. The subject of Evangelist Davis' address was "The Carnal, Christian and the Spiritual Christian."

The pastors each made short addresses after which the audience engaged in prayer at the midnight hour. In the early hour of the new year the audience told of their purposes for the year and a large number chose the occasion to begin a Christian life.

Sunday afternoon a mass meeting for men was held at the tabernacle. A large number of men met at the Y. M. C. A. building, headed by the White Brigade, marched to the tabernacle which was filled. Thirty young ladies dressed in white acted as ushers during the early part of the service. The White Brigade marched to the choir platform where they performed a short drill in true military style. A male singing of hymns, no less a tribute to God of gratitude and service, was rendered by the audience. Evangelist Davis' address was on the subject, "True Manhood and How to Obtain It." The speaker named honesty, purity and sympathy as some of the essentials of true manhood. He said:

"Some of you are so often you can't come into the tabernacle and listen to a message like this for it-teen minutes without wriggling and twisting in your seat.

"If your children should show the ingratitude to you that you do to God you would spank them."

Don't allow your ears to become sewers for anybody's dirty old mouth.

If you have gotten so low that you can't live without telling filthy stories, don't tell them before boys or young men.

A man that ruins girls and boasts about it is lower than any beast.

If some of you men should take heed of meeting him like a man and telling him you can't pry him. A merchant who encourages people to buy things that he knows they can't afford is to blame for some people getting into debt. There are some women that have just enough sense to buy everything that they happen to want whether they can pay for it or not. Some of you that pride yourself on your honesty in financial matters are the biggest kind of robbers. You have robbed a God of gratitude and service, you have robbed your neighbor of your influence and sympathy. Some of you are robbing your mother of joy and sending her to an early grave by the life you are living. If you are honest you will be careful with your hands, your tongue and your ears. A man who would steal a dollar would steal a million dollars if he got a chance."

"Some of you are so often you can't come into the tabernacle and listen to a message like this for it-

Spain's Troops on Portugal's Frontier; King Alfonso Planning Annexation.

MADRID, Jan. 2.—The latest report concerning the future of Portugal is to the effect that Spanish troops have been massed on the frontier with a view to the annexation of Portugal to Spain in case the new republican government officials get to quarreling among themselves or in case the monarchial adherents still remaining in Portugal also against the republic. The King of Spain has lost no much time, during the past 12 years that he said to be ambitious to enlarge his possessions.

Knights of Columbus Lecture at Scottdale

Scottsdale's Council No. 1127 of the Knights of Columbus, which has been a marked factor for the upbuilding of the community since its organization, will offer on Thursday evening, January 5, in the Geyer opera house, the first of a series of lectures which the Council has arranged for the season of 1911 and which will command themselves to everyone.

At the opening attraction the Council has been extremely fortunate in securing the Honorable At J. Murray Judge of the Municipal Court of the City of Boston, Massachusetts, to deliver one of his noted lectures, "The American Heritage," a subject of broad scope and much latitude, touching on the duties of a citizen to his country, man's struggle for existence, and the absolute necessity of honesty, integrity and faithfulness to trust, the theme is one of general interest to all good American citizens and one which appeals to the morality and patriotism which lie within us.

At the Presidential convention in 1904, Judge Murray, as the representative of Massachusetts, had the high

After the Rush Now Is the Great Closing Out Time.

The Union Supply stores are offering now great reductions on all lines of women's and misses' goods, consisting of ready-made suits, wraps, skirts, shirt waists, etc. There are great big lines of fashionable medium priced goods, and starting this day, there will be a great reduction on all of them. If you have not yet secured your winter outfit, it is a good time now to do so; it is a money-saving time for you, as the goods must be sold, and we recommend that you come early. We have just completed our inventory, and every article has been marked down to such a low price that they cannot last long.

There Are Great Reductions in the Shoe Department.

Our shoe stocks, we find after inventory, are entirely too heavy, and we are going to make one strenuous effort to reduce them. Reducing the price, is, in our notion, the best way of reducing the stocks. Therefore, every pair of shoes has been gone over carefully and marked down, in some instances fully 25% less than the original price. We defy any competition to show a better line of shoes, for men, women, boys and girls than the Union Supply Company stores have on hand. They are all made according to our own specifications, every pair guaranteed to us by the makers, and we in this, guarantee them to our customers. If not satisfactory, a new pair awaits you or we will refund your money, if you prefer.

CHAPTER I.

The little valley which he hung poised above was abettered by a second ridge of rocky, ice-capped hills to the north, and, except for streaks, denoting crannies, here and there, was quite limited view of him, an air of authenticity. Cayley was surprised at his not being armed with a bow, for he knew of no other way in which a dart could have been propelled with power.

He fell to wondering, as he hun-lected himself. "I beg your pardon," he stammered. "I don't mean to rudely inquisitive, but what, in the world, is a person like you doing in a part of it—that is, if you are re-

"I suppose it's because of wings," he answered her. "I shot there once, early this summer—slept and rested, and ate a meal."

"The Gay Morning Glories." "Let's go to this, for a line of talk from the girls of the 'Gay Morning Glories,' which is to be seen here at the Soloson theatre Friday night, Jan. 6: 'Morning Glories' Miss Edna told me when it comes to producing girls that are shapely; these girls have it on all others in that they are good looking, they lead the whole mass of society in the way of what they land all the ribbons—(but's) stepping just a little. They'll shove out two beautiful saraments, entitled 'The Women Suffragettes' and 'A Country School.' Every one of them is a beauty and a leader of society and if it's a world time, you're getting for, why poke around with your ownness when there's a cracker-jack how like this in store for you."
